Get into the Holiday Spirit with Wendy Wasserstein, Garrison Keillor, William Lederer and more at the Weston Library

Join the Friends of the Weston Library on Friday, December 4th at 6:30 PM for Seasons Readings, a charming, funny and heartfelt evening of holiday-themed short plays and stories by both classic and contemporary writers and guaranteed to entertain and delight with holiday cheer.

Stories include Grace Paley's tale of growing up on New York's lower East side, The Loudest Voice; William Lederer's adventurous A Christmas Ballad for the Captain; Fred Stroppel's Land of the Sweets, where the indomitable Madam Irine intimidates her young charges through 'Nutcracker' rehearsals; and hilarious autobiographical accounts of holiday (mis) adventures with Christmas in Flatbush by beloved playwright, Wendy Wasserstein, and Garrison Keller's witty The Season of Letter-Perfect Families. And finally, playwright Matt Hoverman explores the pull between the past and the present in Going Home.

Presented by the producers of Play With Your Food, these exceptional stories will be brought to life by a most talented group of actors. The cast will include Katie Sparer, Susan Terry, Susan Vanech and Tom Zingarelli: seasoned professionals familiar to Weston audiences from their memorable appearances in Play With Your Food.

The evening will be topped off with a reception with the cast. Light refreshments will be served at 6:30 PM with the performance from 7PM to 8 PM.

Reservations are required as seating is limited. Admission is free and donations will be accepted. You can register at <http://www.signupgenius.com/go/4090d4badad22a20-seasons>
